

Public Library Core Collection: Nonfiction

REVIEWS

Pub. Date: March 2025
ISBN: 978-8-89179-060-5
List Price: $420

Now in its 16th edition, the Public Library Core Collection: Nonfiction continues to aid librarians tasked with purchasing and collection maintenance. The book also serves as a readers' advisory aid, as a place to verify bibliographic data, and as an instructional aid in courses covering literature and book selection in public libraries.

Inside users will find approximately 12,000 reference and nonfiction titles; a star at the beginning of an entry indicates that a book is most highly recommended (1,700 titles in this edition are so marked). A slate of experienced librarians from both academic and public libraries selected the titles for inclusion (the advisory board is listed in the book's acknowledgments). This core collection includes new and old titles, all of which were in print at the time of publication. Older titles have been retained if they remain the best resource in a given area. There have been significant revisions in the areas of STEM, graphic novels, and weeding. The introduction explains the organization of the book into two parts, the Classified Collection and the Author, Title, and Subject Index. Part one is organized by Dewey Decimal Classification and includes bibliographical information along with book annotations. The section begins with an Outline of Classification that also serves as a table of contents for the first part of the book. The extensive index (which includes see and see also references) also facilitates searching.

Recommended.

Public Library Core Collection: Nonfiction

“This volume in the Core Collection Series (formerly known as the Standard Catalog Series) offers an up-to-date listing of recommended adult nonfiction and reference titles. It contains older titles which may be updated (provided they are considered the standard of their topic) as well as new titles which may either explore more recent areas of interest or reflect new understanding of a given topic. This substantial volume includes over 12,000 titles naming books published in the United States or abroad (with a US distribution). Organized into two parts, this volume initially lists the Classified Collection (Part One), with titles arranged according to the Dewey Decimal System, then follows up with an Author, Title and Subject Index (Part Two) which serves as a key to the first part. Information detailed in the Classified Collection mainly includes a full bibliographical description (number of pages, etc.), recommended subject headings, Dewey Decimal classification numbers, a brief summation of the book’s contents, pricing information, and more. Part Two is arranged alphabetically and indexes all titles in the Classified Collection. The boldface classification number guides readers to the location of the title’s main entry in Part One. This index is particularly helpful if a title may be classified in more than one area. Including directions for understanding the book’s organization as well as the best ways to use it (e.g., as an aid to purchasing etc.), this large and vital reference is a must for both public and academic libraries.”

“The book is a list of recommendations of essential nonfiction titles every public library should carry. The entries of more than 12,000 titles deal exclusively with adult material. The text is organized into two large parts, the first arranged according to the Dewey Decimal System, the second according to author, title, and subject. A short abstract is included with each entry as well as purchase price, publication date, ISBN, etc.”
