

Contents

Preface	ix
---------	----

1

Personal Cybersecurity

The Personal Data Dimension	3
How to Protect Your Digital Privacy in the Era of Public Shaming Julia Angwin, ProPublica , January 26, 2017	9
Passing the Email Privacy Act Has Never Been More Urgent Andy Greenberg, Wired , February 6, 2017	13
Practicing Good Personal Cybersecurity Isn't Just about Protecting Yourself Josephine Wolff, Slate , February 7, 2017	16
The Watchers: Assaults on Privacy in America Jonathan Shaw, Harvard Magazine , January-February 2017	19
Open Technology: Values, Compromises, and Ownership Brynne Morris, Georgia Bullen, Steph Alarcon, Fernanda Lavallo, Nat Meysenburg, and Chris Ritzo, New America Weekly , October 27, 2016	32

2

Net Neutrality and Government Surveillance

Cyberpolitics: Neutrality, Privacy, and Security	39
Follow Obama's Lead on Cybersecurity Robert Knake, The Cipher Brief , January 22, 2017	45
Consumers Are Going to Love the End of Net Neutrality—at First Christopher Mims, The Wall Street Journal , February 12, 2017	48
Government's Privacy Rights Don't Exceed the Public's Noah Feldman, Bloomberg , July 25, 2016	51
Documents Show AT&T Secretly Sells Customer Data to Law Enforcement Nicky Woolf, The Guardian , October 25, 2016	54
Concerns Loom Over a Data-Sharing Pact to Protect Privacy of Europeans Natalia Drozdiak and Sam Schechner, The Wall Street Journal , February 8, 2017	57
Trump's FCC Pick Quickly Targets Net Neutrality Rules Cecelia Kang, The New York Times , February 5, 2017	60
Now It's Much Easier for Government Agencies to Get NSA Surveillance Data Robyn Greene, Slate , January 17, 2017	63
The Risks of Sending Secret Messages in the White House Kaveh Waddell, The Atlantic , February 15, 2017	66

3

New Challenges to Privacy

Cyberthreats of Today and Tomorrow	71
The Privacy Threat from Always-On Microphones Like the Amazon Echo Jay Stanley, ACLU.org/blog , January 13, 2017	77
Incentives Need to Change for Firms to Take Cyber-Security More Seriously The Economist , December 20, 2016	83
Hacking, Cryptography, and the Countdown to Quantum Computing Alex Hutchinson, The New Yorker , September 26, 2016	86
The Dyn DDoS Attack and the Changing Balance of Online Cyber Power Kalev Leetaru, Forbes.com , October 31, 2016	90
The Internet of Things Is a Cyberwar Nightmare James Stavridis and Dave Weinstein, Foreignpolicy.com , November 3, 2016	93
The Biggest Security Threats Coming in 2017 Wired staff, January 2, 2017	96
Why Does Our Privacy Really Matter? Evan Selinger, The Christian Science Monitor , April 22, 2016	100

4

Internet News and Accountability

Internet News and the Fight for Legitimacy	107
Fake News Expert on How False Stories Spread and Why People Believe Them NPR Fresh Air , December 14, 2016	113
Who Controls Your Facebook Feed Will Oremus, Slate , January 3, 2016	128
The Very Real Consequences of Fake News Stories and Why Your Brain Can't Ignore Them Nsikan Akpan, PBS News Hour , December 5, 2016	139
Why Do We Fall for Fake News? Shyam Sundar, The Conversation , December 7, 2016	145
The Trump Administration Plays Right into Russia's Information Warfare Strategy David Fidler, Net Politics , February 13, 2017	149

5

The Power and Influence of Technology

Black Hats and White Hats: The Hacking Phenomenon	155
The Perfect Weapon: How Russian Cyberpower Invaded the U.S. Eric Lipton, David E. Sanger, and Scott Shane, The New York Times , December 13, 2016	161
Hacking the Attention Economy Danah Boyd, Points: Data + Society , January 5, 2017	178
Partisan Politics and the Russian Hacking Imbroglia Jonah Goldberg, The National Review , January 6, 2017	183
Feds: We Can Read All Your Email, and You'll Never Know Clark D. Cunningham, The Conversation , September 21, 2016	186
Lobbying Muscle May Help Tech Titans "Trump" Trump Allan Holmes and Jared Bennett, The Center for Public Integrity , December 13, 2016	190
Reboot the World Paul Ford, The New Republic , June 22, 2016	198
Bibliography	205
Websites	211
Index	215